Leasing Education “Boot Camp” for IT Professionals

(Irwin, PA) XeC announces the Leasing Education Boot Camp Series, a new training program designed to educate IT staff that are developing in-house leasing and asset finance software.

The education series helps ‘technologists’ better understand the nuances and complexities of the leasing industry’s business processes and accounting & taxation. The developers, project managers and Q&A staff can respond more effectively to the leasing department’s business requirements, thereby improving project ROI.

The education modules are available in live instructor-led and / or eLearning digital formats and can be customized for specific company requirements. The Boot Camp Series is specifically designed for the needs of consultants, development staff, and IT professionals and is intended to complement existing courseware available through the ELA and other leasing associations.

The Lease Education Boot Camp Series was designed by XeC’s senior consultants, who have implemented more than 450 lease and asset finance systems in 22 countries and in five languages over the past 15 years. Companies interested in learning more about the program can contact John Voytko at 724-861-9953 or at info@xec1.com.

XeC is a software development support group specializing in lease/loan asset finance education, system analysis, software specification, testing, implementation, and complex project rollouts.
