

A Standardised, Global Training Platform

to reduce costs and ensure a common basis

XeC has trained over 2,000 people at 451 companies in 22 countries and has developed distance learning classes.

Set a Simple Global Standard

Accounting was the first business process to be consolidated on a global basis. Business processes are next. This means standard information, policies and procedures must be communicated. Thus, education and training become important on a worldwide basis.

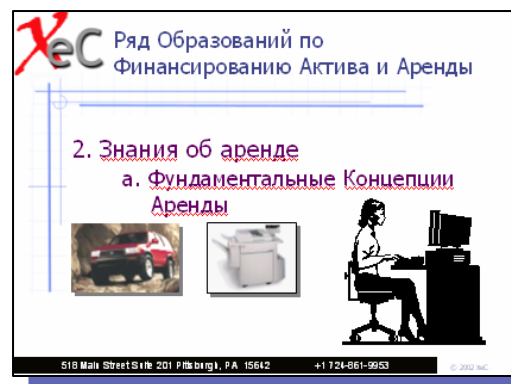

We have discovered a simple approach to setting a worldwide standard.

“Act Local, Think Global”

A proven approach is to preserve the local business culture and customs of local offices, but then educate people as to the global goals of the company. Local accounting and taxation rules are still recognised. The essential global business processes and ‘ways of doing business’ remain intact.

A More Efficient Method

Working in a slide-centric environment allows for easier editing and updating of all content. Plus, language translation is much easier.
